NO MORALITY IF RELIGION IS GONE

SUCH IS TREND OF VIEWS OF NORWEGIAN LUTHERANS

DISCUSS TOPIC THIS MORNING

New Delegates Are Admitted Today and Matters of Importance to Church Are Discussed

This morning's session of the eastern synod of the Norwegian Lutheran church was devoted largely to a discussion of Christian education as a task of the church, and its bearing upon the morality of the people.

Rev. J. A. O. Stub read notes from the works of George Washington, Daniel Webster, ex-Governor Rice of Massachusetts and other prominent statesmen and educators showing that they recognized the impossibility of true morality without religion. Discussions were led by Professor T. M. Gimmedstad, president of Gale college, Galesville, Professor C. K. Preus of the Lutheran college at Decorah, Ia., and others who emphasized the necessity of religious education in order to promote true morality.

Rev. Biedeson of Deerfield opened the morning session with an address after which the following delegates were admitted: Martin Hanson, Pigeon Creek; O. E. Engelbrecht, Orfordville, Wis.; G. Myrland, Wood Co.; M. Nelson, Ferryville; S. Matthews, Wood Co. The following delegates were admitted as auditors: O. Anderson of Frenchville, C. M. Scarseth of Hardie Creek, P. G. Hansen of the Fogernes church, J. John Amondson of upper Lewis valley and C. Alme of Baldwin, Wis., were admitted as guests.

The president then read a communication from the senior of the synod ministry, Rev. H. A. Stub of St. Paul, who is father of Dr. H. G. Stub president of the Lutheran seminary at St. Paul and grandfather of the Rev. J. A. O. of Stoughton, Wis., one of the prominent Lutheran delegates in the city.

In his letter he urged the Christian educators of children to extra effort in promoting unity between the Norwegian church bodies of the country. Rev. H. Halverson of Westby was appointed to send a suitable reply.

Rev. D. V. Koren of Decorah, Ia., framed a resolution in regard to the death of the late Th. Botne of Decorah, Iowa, who was at one time a prominent educator of the synod. Regular sermons and church services will take up the attention of the delegates tomorrow and Monday the election of officers will probably be held.

Churches Admitted

The afternoon session yesterday of the eastern conference of the synod of the Norwegian Evangelical Lutheran church of America opened with an address by Rev. M. F. Wiese of Deerfield, Wis., after which the Evangelical Lutheran church at Dunning, Ill., and the Burns Valley church were admitted to the district.

The following members were admitted to membership followed by an address of welcome by the president, H. C. Smely, Virgo; J. O. Tweton, Grantsburg; H. E. Olson, Milwaukee; H. M. Olson, Madison; J. A. Moistad, Chicago; N. Magelssen, Lee, Ill.

Subscriptions Increased

The finance committee of the synod presented a successful report of the past year and showed a steady increase of voluntary contributions. The total amount of donations received this year is $28,784, an increase of $2,500 over last year. The committee recommended that the synod exert itself to pay off the debt of the Lutheran normal school at Sioux Falls, S. D., and also dispose of the farm of the synod at Ingersoll, Wis.

President to Have Aid

The next work that was gone over concerned the office of the president and it was decided he should hire an assistant, who should be paid $800 a year. This was passed with only four votes against the change. It was proposed that each pastoral conference should elect one representative of the president, whom the president could deputize to perform certain parts of his work, but this was defeated by a large majority.

Funds for College

Prof. C. K. Preus, president of the Lutheran college at Decorah, Ia., who is collecting funds for erecting a new dormitory at the college, reported that over $45,000 of the $60,000 had been raised.

Other Committees Named

The following new committees were appointed: Nominations—Rev. C. S. Everson, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rev. A. Bredesen, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rev. P. A. Widvey, (Continued on Page Nine.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—Hong Kong advices estimate that 50,000 armed rebels are in revolt, and more are joining the standard of the rebellion daily.

An outbreak took place forty miles from Nanning. Only officials were attacked, a circumstance that has been a feature of all the disturbances so far reported. The government believes that foreigners are unlikely to be attacked. All possible precautions have been taken, however, and Consul Paddock has been directed to keep the department fully advised and to call upon Admiral Dayton of the Asiatic station if aid is needed. It is reported that 30,000 rebels are operating south of Amoy.

OLD MAN ROBS SISTER

WHEELING, W. Va., June 1.—H. O. Hoehn, a man 70 years of age, was arrested here today charged with having robbed his sister, a resident of Indianapolis, of $50,000 in money and bonds. He had $9,800 in money and all the bonds in his possession when apprehended.

The woman kept $11,000 in money and $40,000 in securities in a safety deposit vault in the Fletcher National bank. Some days ago she missed the money. Her aged brother was not suspected until a telegram was received from a Cincinnati banking house inquiring about the bonds, which an aged man had attempted to sell, arousing suspicion. The clue was followed up and resulted in the capture of Hoehn in Wheeling.

LACROSSE BREWERY WORKERS ARE OUT

GENERAL ORDER OF GOMPERS
SUSPENDS ALL LOCALS

500 UNIONS DISFRANCHISED

National Federation Takes Steps to Compel Dropping of Firemen and Teamsters

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—The Brewery Workers' union, comprising 400 locals, was formally expelled from the American federation by President Gompers today. The action followed a referendum in which the unions voted to ignore the order of the national association that the brewers relinquish from their control the firemen and teamsters up to this time given membership. It was announced at Minneapolis yesterday that if the concession was not made within the time limit, June 1, the expulsion would follow.

Others Have Them

According to the brewery workers, a number of other organizations have men who do not rightfully belong to them, and the federation, in all consistency, must demand that they too give up these men. This will precipitate further trouble.

The present controversy is practically between factions, one of which believes in having separate organizations of crafts, and the other favors having all men in an industry belong to one national union.

Drastic Method Talked

The idea of placing breweries on the unfair list, because their employers do not belong to the American Federation of Labor, has been suggested, but is not considered seriously.

As a result of a decision by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, made today, members of the brewers' union in La Crosse, numbering 130, will lose their credentials in the organization. President Gompers has expelled from the national organization 400 local unions among which is the La Crosse local. This action is taken in accord with the wish of the meeting held at Minneapolis, which meeting instructed the Brewery Workers of North America to give up the teamsters, engineers and firemen under its jurisdiction by June. The brewery unions did not obey instructions and as a result President Gompers took the action noted.

When apprised of the fact today the local officers of the brewers' union, and Louis Weigel, secretary of the Trades and Labor council, were unable to say what the position of the local union will be relative to the affair, but believe that the unions will exist independent of the national organization. It will be necessary for the Trades and Labor council to deprive the local brewers' union of their credentials.

PITS WISCONSIN AGAINST THREE-I

PRESIDENT MOLL ARRANGES
POST SEASON GAMES

MOLL TALKS ON THE LEAGUE

Madison Leads Attendance by Majority of 25 per Cent; Better Umpires Voted by Clubs.

To determine the comparative strength of the Three-I and the Wisconsin State Baseball leagues, President Chas. F. Moll of the latter organization is making arrangements to have the pennant winners of these two leagues meet in the fall in a series of six games, two to be played in each of the cities winning the pennants and two to be played at Milwaukee. Mr. Moll is spending today in La Crosse and states that he has written to President Edw. Holland of the Three-I league on the matter. The idea is a good one and would afford much sport for the fans.

Madison Leads

"Madison leads the other cities in the league by at least 25 per cent the larger attendance," says Mr. Moll. "The club is drawing very large crowds, some of the week day games bringing out 1,200 people. The park is located in the business section of the city and the people can get there within five minutes. The league looks stronger than ever this year. In spite of the fact that the opening was beset with bad weather the clubs did well."

Salaries Raised

The mail vote of the league on the proposition of raising the salaries of umpires from $125 to $150 carried by a full vote. As a result of this Mr. Moll states that he has secured a first class staff of umpires. Cochem, the former university football star, will report for duty next Tuesday. Umpire Dunn, another new man, is working here today.

Mr. Moll has not taken action on the protested games in this city, with the exception of the second game with Fond du Lac, deciding this protest in favor of La Crosse.

"In my belief the conditions existing in our league relative to the players, is much better than in most minor leagues," said Mr. Moll. "Of course the trouble which occurred here when Dolan struck Umpire Sweeney, was unfortunate, but he was punished. Yesterday I suspended Roxy Walters of Green Bay and fined him $15 for rowdy tactics, and he will not be in the game today."

Mr. Moll did not say much concerning the Dolan affair, but stated that in the future players would be severely dealt with. Discipline, he says, he will have in the league.

BECOMES A BURGLAR

Peter Stein Is Freed After a Severe Reprimand

For the past four days Peter Stein, a little ragamuffin 12 years of age, living on the north side, has been locked up at the city police station because he was fastly developing into a burglar. This morning the lad was released by Chief of Police Byrne after having been given a severe reprimand and made to understand what the consequences will be the next time.

For the past week and a half a number of burglaries have been reported from the north side, candy stores being entered in the night and quantities of candy and other things secured. A few days ago Detective Taylor arrested the Stein boy and he confessed to being the one who did the jobs.

CITY CLERK SIEGER SAYS HE

Effort of Defeated Candidates to Get Into Office on Recount Becomes Interesting

"Certainly I am going to have the inspectors of the Tenth ward arrested," stated City Clerk Joseph M. Sieger this morning. "I will show these fellows who were the crooked ones at the election and when I get through with them there will be no question of who is right."

This afternoon on Monday Mr. Sieger will swear out warrants against P. C. Casberg, Alderman William Grover and W. J. Lowry, election inspectors in the Tenth ward, charging them with wilfully destroying the ballots in that ward after the count had been made on the evening of April 2, contrary to the state statutes. This action is the outcome of the proceedings started against Mr. Sieger, George Falk and Joseph F. Bartl by Frank W. Collier, Samuel Guertin and William P. Roellig in the circuit court, demanding a recount of the vote.

In their case the contestants claim that the inspectors of every ward in the city, but the Tenth, made false and incorrect returns. Mr. Sieger claims now that the only false returns came from the Tenth ward and the ballots were burned contrary to law, as the ballots should have been returned to the city clerk.

Claims of Contestants
According to the contesting candidates incorrect totals were returned, they asserting that the total vote returned was larger than the actual vote. Mr. Guertin and Mr. Collier claim they were elected submitting the following figures:

Second ward.....	84

YELLOW PERIL IS NO EMPTY DREAM

EMBARRASMENTS CONSTANTLY ARISING FROM RELATIONS

JAPS LOOKING FOR TROUBLE

Every Incident in Race Friction Points to Treaty Trouble in 1911 or Sooner

(By J. C. Welliver.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.—No features of America's international relations are giving the state department and the administration so much worry as the Japanese question. This problem can hardly be spoken of properly as a question, since it has a number of phases and is in reality a series of questions, each one having important bearing on the matter of maintenance of good relations with Japan in the future.

Nothing could be more remote from the truth than to suppose that the Japanese problem reached even an approximate settlement when congress last winter incorporated into the immigration bill a provision for the exclusion of such Japanese laborers as sought to enter the United States from foreign countries, the insular possessions or the canal zone without a passport admitting them to this country. That arrangement, coupled with the action of the San Francisco authorities in giving way on the order for the segregation of Japanese pupils in the public schools had the effect temporarily to allay excitement both in this country and in Japan. But it has utterly failed to remove the causes of friction between the two countries.

Rule is Ignored

The passport arrangement has failed signally in keeping the Japanese laborers out. They continue to come into the United States in considerable numbers. Statistics for April, from the bureau of immigration, show an increase of several hundred over the number that entered in April, 1906. Immigration officers are loath to say anything about the Japanese situation. It is too delicate and orders have gone down the line to keep still about it. It is true, however, that the passport provision put into the immigration bill last winter is being evaded by the method of sending Japanese in Hawaii, who want to come to the mainland on passports of Japanese who are already in this country. Passports of this kind are said to be worth a round sum. More than this, numbers of Japanese are getting into the country over the Mexican border. This is the case despite special precautions to keep them out and an increase in the force of inspectors along the Mexican border.

Japs are Interested

Ambassador Aoki's decision to make a tour of the Pacific coast with his staff is an indication of the keen interest the Japanese embassy is taking in the situation in this country. The ambassador is undoubtedly acting under instructions from his government. He is going to ascertain the condition of the Japanese on the coast, how they are being treated and how deep-seated is the opposition to the admission of the immigrants from Nippon. Representatives have come from prominent American citizens on the Pacific coast to effect that the opposition to Japanese immigration is largely fomented by the labor unions and is not general among the white population. Ambassador Aoki wants to find out if this is so. He wants to become thoroughly informed on the various questions involved before 1911, when the present treaty will expire. There are many indications that the Japanese government will insist on a new treaty as liberal as the present one in respect to immigration of Japanese and that it will not consent to have a provision put in for the exclusion of coolies. Unless there is such an exclusion provision, the immigration officials admit it is useless to try to keep them out.

Confronted by the prospects of inability to negotiate an exclusion treaty on the one hand and by the fact that the numbers of incoming Japanese are increasing, with growing tendency to ill feeling between the races, the outlook is not particularly reassuring for the state department. Moreover, there is evidence that the Japanese government is disposed to let no opportunities pass by to assert its rights. This has been manifested by the recent San Francisco episode, wherein attacks were made on Japanese places of business. A striking feature of this was that the news reached the state department officially from Tokio. Up to that time, nothing particular was known of it. It was regarded as an incident of the general strike trouble and not as directed particularly at the Japanese race.

BADGER CREW TRIUMPHS OVER THE SYRACUSE EIGHT

TEST OF EAST AND WEST MADE

ADMIRERS CARRY VICTORIOUS
OARSMEN ON SHOULDERS

ACCIDENT IN FOUR OARED

Collision With Floating Buoy Destroys Chances of the Madison
Four Winning

MADISON, Wis., June 1.—The first real test of the merits of Wisconsin and eastern crews was made in the Mendota regatta yesterday and the west came out victorious.

The Wisconsin eight-oared crew, coached by Edward H. Ten Eyck, defeated the Syracuse crew coached by James A. Ten Eyck, by two lengths over a two-mile course. The time was 10:39.

Before the big race, the Syracuse four pulled over the line five lengths ahead of the Badger four, making the two miles in 11:45.

The Wisconsin freshmen defeated St. John's Military academy by eight lengths over an estimated one-mile course, which they covered in 3:52.

As if to make the races a typical regatta there were the usual number of mishaps. In the freshmen's race the oar of the St. John's stroke jumped its outrigger and put the stroke out of the race. About half a mile from the finish of the four-oared event, the Wisconsin crew struck a buoy that was concealed from sight by the darkness.

Neither accident affected materially the outcome of the races. Rough water made it impossible for the races to be rowed at the scheduled time, 5 p. m. At this hour a breeze of twenty miles an hour was blowing over the lake, tossing up whitecaps on the course that meant destruction to any racing craft that ventured onto the water.

It was just 7:17 when the referee's gun announced the start of the freshmen event, and already the shadows were lowering over the lake. The wind had died down to a twelve-mile speed, but the whitecaps still tossed, and for a time it was thought that the races would have to be postponed until tomorrow.

Weather Suits Badgers
It was perfect weather. The hard luck of which the oarsmen have complained all spring when they were forced to take their practice because the blizzards proved today to be a blessing in disguise. Wisconsin, through necessity, was trained for rough water work. Yesterday their training stood them well in hand.

Syracuse won the toss for position in both races, and the elder Ten Eyck chose the inside course where the water is less rough.

It was almost dark when the varsity boats pulled off at Fuller's landing.

KILLS SELF ON WIFE'S GRAVE
WAUKESHA, Wis., June 1.—The body of J. K. Jamison of Chicago was found at the Catholic cemetery in the town of Genesee, where he had committed suicide by shooting at the grave of his young wife. They were most devoted to each other and Mrs. Jamison's death on Feb. 2 last was a shock to her husband from which he never recovered. He visited his wife's grave daily and constant brooding over her death is thought to have unbalanced his mind.

OVERLAND TRIP IN BOAT

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1.—A tramp, name unknown, has accomplished the remarkable feat of traveling across the American continent in a motor boat. The man was a passenger on a forty foot power launch owned by Henry Field of this city, and arrived in Seattle recently. Without staying long enough to receive congratulations for his remarkable voyage, the hobo left the boat and has not since been heard from.

Mr. Field recently purchased the boat from a large builder in the east. The little craft was started for its journey to Seattle by way of the Canadian Pacific railway, being placed on a flat car. The boat was boarded up for protection against the weather and rough handling.

While the craft was on the freight car it caught the eye of the tramp of seafaring instincts. By loosening a board or two of the packing the navigator managed to gain entrance to the launch and made himself at home on board.

The boat apparently made an ideal home for the hobo. He found plenty of room to stretch out and sleep tranquilly while the freight train was puffing heavily up steep mountain grades and rumbling across the trestles which span dizzy canyons of the Rockies. At the occasional stops of the freight on lonely sidings the hobo mariner made forays into the surrounding country and returned with light repasts, which he evidently ate on board his good ship.

When the launch approached salt water the occupant bethought himself of unpleasant discovery. He gathered up everything movable, including brass fittings of the boat, cushions, and the like, and silently slipped over the side of the vessel, leaving it, derelict, to sail into the port of Seattle.

A lot of unnecessary sympathy is wasted on old bachelors and spinsters.

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 1.—Baillies was in fine fettle in the last game of the series between La Crosse and Oshkosh yesterday, and the champs made it three straight. Baillies deserved a shutout, but the ragged support afforded the big fellow allowed Oshkosh to score one run. The score of the game was 6 to 1.

Hawley's men had no trouble whatever in taking the game as they did on the previous day. Bubser himself went into the box to clean up at least one game of the three, but he was tapped just as hard as any of his staff, the champs scoring three runs in the first two innings. The hitting of Medwitsky was a feature of the game and materially helped pile up the La Crosse runs. Medwitsky secured a two sack and three sack off Bubser.

Fodder for Fans
Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah for the champs. On piffle.
Our most beautiful dream has come true. Sweet peace on earth and in the camp of the Oshkosh club. Madison and Fond du Lac have found it impossible to make a winning in three games. Wouldn't it give you the sniffles.

Actually, and this is no josh, Quinn made a hit yesterday and was credited for two bases. Three cheers for Quinn.
Medwitsky is just beginning to locate his old batting eye. He was rapping them yesterday.
The team displayed that same erratic work yesterday with Baillies in the box. They don't seem able to live up to their rep with this finger in the box.

Commencing June 9th the running time of passenger trains on the Burlington road between Chicago and Omaha, and Chicago and Kansas City and Denver will be materially increased. The Denver limited, which now leaves Chicago at 5 p. m. will, under the new schedule leave at 9:15 a. m. The running time has been increased four hours and 45 minutes.

The eastbound limited will leave Denver at 12:30 p. m. instead of at 4:35 p. m., with an increase in running time of four hours and 50 minutes. The recent action of the legislatures of Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois, in passing two cent fare bills is said to be back of the action of the railroads.

WARREN SPRUCES UP
WARREN, Minn., June 1.—Marshall county is to have a new sheriff's residence and jail at the county seat, this city. The contract price is $15,000. City water and sewerage is being installed in the old court house and necessary repairs are being made.

A large number of new buildings are being erected this spring; the wooden sidewalks are being replaced by cement walks; streets are being graded, and the city is taking on a metropolitan air.

Crops in Marshall county are doing nicely. Rain is needed. Less wheat has been sown this year than usual, flax and barley taking its place.

THE DOPE BOX

A few more games postponed and the schedule never will be played out.

It is possible that the association will let Quinn go as the team must be cut down to the number of twelve men. Quinn has been playing anything but good ball and made only one hit on the trip.

Without any hard luck in the way of injuries, etc., there is no reason why Hawley should not land another pennant. It really would be a shame to do it.

The story comes from Oshkosh that after the Decoration day games there wasn't enough rope in the town to accommodate the fans and baseball directors. It is also said that a number have mysteriously disappeared.

Down in the Three-I league a great race is on. Decatur and Rock Island have been tied for first place for a week and the other teams with the exception of Bloomington and Dubuque, are bunched.

The fight game has been stopped in Davenport. It all came about because two many promoters tried to get their fingers in the pie. Couldn't find a good thing ride.

Ed Konetchy kept up his batting average on the trip just concluded and is still hitting a .500 clip. There is not another player in the league doing this.

Information comes from Freeport that the Pretzels are awaiting the times when they can meet the champs. They will probably wish they had waited a little longer after the play is over.

The state of Wisconsin takes pride in its university crew down at Madison. Such a victory as it achieved yesterday over the crack Syracuse eight sets it up as one of the strongest in the country.

The Wisconsin State Baseball league is only a lower class organization, but it can make records for all of the fact. The two games of 12 innings and 17 innings played between Fond du Lac and Madison Thursday, without either game resulting in a victory, is a record never equalled.

Mike Schreck, the Indiana fighter, now claims the championship title because of his victory over Marvin Hart at Tonopah, Nev., Decoration day. Mike has had more trouble making matches than any other fighter in the business. He has clearly demonstrated his ability in the game.

"Howdy" Cassibone and his Madison men are at the play yard here today. "Howdy" says he has a great team and expects to bear the pennant flapping at the end of the season. Of course there will be some dispute over the matter.

Tom Letcher has about decided that he has the right team for Fond du Lac. A bunch of players who can do what his men did on Decoration day deserve to get a pie check for the rest of the season.

RIPON MEET IS HELD

Oshkosh Carries Off Honors
by One Point

RIPON, Wis., June 1.—Oshkosh high school captured the Ripon college interscholastic trophy cup yesterday by a narrow margin of one point, scoring 32 as against Appleton's 31. New college records were made in the 100 yard dash, the high 220 hurdles, but owing to a slight favorable wind will not stand.

Brooks of Deperre and Adams of Appleton tied for individual honors, each scoring 13 points. Both will receive gold medals. Simmons of Ripon was third with 11. Oshkosh started in by winning all three places in the first event, but Appleton overtook them and at the starting of the relay Appleton was one point to the good, the latter even being the most interesting of the day, as on it depended the result of the meet. The meet was the most successful ever given by Ripon college. President Hughes announcing tonight that the entire expense of contestants would be met by the college. The work of Lightbody, the referee, was highly praised notwithstanding that seven heats were required to determine some events. Under his supervision and with the able assistance of Coach Luehring the meet was run off in three hours. A reception was given tonight to the visitors at Commons hall, at which the prizes were given the successful competitors.

BE THERE TUESDAY EVENING

On next Tuesday evening the board of trade will meet to consider taking some action looking to the advertising of La Crosse. There will be a further report from the committee having the matter in charge, one of whom gave THE TRIBUNE the following interview today:

"There never has been a time in the history of La Crosse, when a united effort on the part of its capitalists and business men would result in more genuine benefit to the entire community, than the present. When the board of trade holds its next meeting, on the evening of Tuesday, June 4, the question of commercial advancement will be thoroughly discussed, and means promulgated whereby the business interests of the city may be served to the best advantage. A little planning, a little money, and a little well directed energy at the present time, may, and undoubtedly will mean great and lasting advantage to all phases of trade, whether manufacturing, wholesale or retail. It is the long pull, the strong pull and pull together that makes things go, and we therefore bespeak a large attendance on Tuesday night."

This appeal for attendance, and interest, should be heeded by the public. The assertion that La Crosse has many advantages to advertise is not more true than that this city needs much for which it ought to advertise. La Crosse has factory sites, railroad facilities, splendid municipal equipment as streets, public buildings, local traction conveniences and more of the sort, a residence district of surpassing beauty. It has excellent schools. It has coming soon a normal school. It is rich in fraternal orders and social advantages. It has just provided for a magnificent Y. M. C. A. building and all the good that comes with institutions of this kind. It expects soon to have a public auditorium. It is located upon the great Mississippi river, whose waters will within a decade mingle with those of the great lakes and be so devoted to commerce as to place La Crosse on the water high road that reaches every port in the world. Its mercantile strength is remarkable. It has many good factories and progressive wholesale interests. It has splendid new theater and a high grade family vaudeville theater. Its churches are numerous, prosperous and potent in advancing morality in our midst. Our banks are noted as among the most stable and progressive and prosperous in the northwest.

These things we have, and they are good things. They should act as a mighty magnet to draw other things that we want to our midst. Other people in other places, moving about in the great circulation of trade and manufacture, are constantly looking for promising locations. We want these people; these people want us. The answer is, first and foremost, advertise. That is what the advertising committee wants to do. It wants to let all these people and institutions that are changing their locations know what La Crosse has to offer as inducements to them to locate here, and invest their money and prosecute their industries here. That is the purpose of the meeting Tuesday evening. It is hoped that sufficient interest will be awakened to secure a consensus of opinion that La Crosse shall not hide its light under a bushel. The plea for a large attendance should be heeded, and there should be gathered together on this occasion all the men who are inspired by an earnest purpose to push this city to the front.

SOME BIRDS OF A FEATHER

That Wisconsin will, to a man, stand back of the candidacy of Senator La Follette for the presidency, is fairly certain. There are in this state many men who have fought him, but a large percentage of these men have changed their minds. Even those who are not in full accord with his views will remember that he is a Wisconsin man and that they are Wisconsin men, and will be in line for the senator.

The Milwaukee Journal says: "Mr. La Follette should either come out openly for the nomination and stop posing as a Roosevelt champion, or put an end to this movement for a solid La Follette delegation from Wisconsin. He cannot do both without being guilty of dishonest or disreputable political trickery."

Now, Taft is for Roosevelt, if Roosevelt is a candidate. Why don't Taft wait around awhile? Because he is on the inside, and Roosevelt being for Taft, can let the secretary go on framing it up while all the other fellows must wait and lose, or ignore the president's possible candidacy. La Follette is for Roosevelt, if Roosevelt is a candidate. If not, La Follette is for La Follette, Roosevelt has said he is not a candidate, of course, but then there was Spooner, who was "unalterably determined," etc., under very similar conditions. Why doesn't Mr. Roosevelt declare that he is a candidate himself, or else stop his supporters all over the country? It isn't any worse for Roosevelt to say he is for Taft and at the same time to permit his admirers to be using his name, than it is for La Follette to say he is for Roosevelt and to permit his friends using his name. You see, the Taft-Roosevelt affair is so much like the La Follette-Roosevelt affair that to call La Follette a trickster is to call Taft a trickster. And in the case of Taft, Roosevelt is a party to all the trickery there is in it. President Roosevelt's inclination to use political strategy in landing his man Taft in the presidency justifies the use of all the political cunning any of Taft's opponents may possess.

Assemblyman Owens did not hesitate to charge the railroads with choking off traffic on the Mississippi. These things have been said with equal truth for years, but they were in the form of rumor. An assemblyman says them in the legislature, and they become facts and a grievance is recognized. Nothing more emphatically impresses the force and value of official utterance, or indicates more plainly the power for good that rests with those having authority. The agitation that has been given Mr. Owens' address shows that it has done more to promote definite purpose regarding the rehabilitation of our great waterway than has all the unofficial argument presented so voluminously during years now past.

The bill before the state legislature to extend the capitol park to Lake Monona, while it involves some expense, is fully justified by the splendid advantages it would offer.

It is presumed that when the antlers are spreading in Waukesha there will be experienced a keen appreciation of the fact that even Waukesha water is fine—afterwards.

Hark! What's that! It can't be that the celebration is already on and the Fourth still 34 days away! Ah, gwan! That's the La Follette boom.

The president played "catch" with some farmer boys. Now one would have anticipated that he would insist on being at bat with the big stick.

Kuroki, touring the county as the nations guest, will no doubt make one report to the Mikado that is both official and confidential.

At last Wisconsin has won an intercollegiate regatta against the east. So it really does matter whose cellar door, you see!

A SHAMEFUL SUSPICION

(Baltimore News.)

We note with surprise that the venerable Senator Pettus was suspected of improper language; in fact, that he had used "cuss words" the other day in Washington while commenting on the Brownsville inquiry. When asked his opinion as to that investigation, he is reported to have replied, with spirit: "The whole thing is damnum abscque injuria," which was immediately interpreted by his unclassical hearers as a kind of language in which no church member in good standing should indulge. It is related, with how much accuracy we do not know, that even at a cabinet meeting the members were shocked when the unseemly verbiage of the distinguished senator from Alabama was repeated to them and that an atmosphere of pain continued to pervade the cabinet room until that scholarly and resourceful statesman from Maryland, Attorney General Bonaparte, entered and relieved the tension by translating the apparently profane perissage as meaning nothing more than "a wrong done for which the law provides no remedy."

Senator Pettus is not the kind of statesman to feel the need of expletives to add vigor to his native speech. Not only is the senator noted for his classical learning, which a rare and omni-vorous memory keeps ever fresh, but for a virility of Anglo-Saxon diction that easily enables him to keep an antagonist in hopeless suspense between the hammer and the anvil of his incessant onslaught. There are no "cuss words" in the bright lexicon of the Sage of Selma. He may have his faults, but profanity is not one of them. A juicy quid cut from a Marlboro plug, a glass of beady nectar distilled on the banks of the roaring Alabama, or a hand in the gentleman's game in which a full beetle a bob-tailed flush, may be among his innocent and casual diversions, but not for him the impious and profane profanations that cannot be expressed in respectable print except by dashes and exclamation points.

Guilty of Something.

Sergt. Day was as regimental as a buttonstick. "Shun!" he cried to his squad. "Quick march! Left wheel! Halt! Take Murphy's name for talking in the ranks."

"But he wasn't talking," protested a corporal who was standing near.

"Wasn't he?" roared Sergt. Day. "Don't matter, then. Cross it out, and put him in the guard room for deceiving me!"—London Mirror.

Our Chop Suey Girl

We had finished our supper and pushed back our chair.

As we do when we light our cigar.

And we mused on the fanciful things we saw where

The smoke wafted out through the door, half ajar

Our mind was fast slipping back over the years.

As the mind will to childhood's fond dwelling:

Loved creatures were coming like a vision appears.

When—hush! We heard somebody yelling:

"Hey, come answer this phone—can't you hear the thing ring?"

We reluctantly gave up our smoking.

And straightened our joints out and answered the thing

In a voice that invited no joking.

We answered it once, twice and thrice, and some more.

And at each, call our temper grew worse:

And finally the crowd came on up to the door,

To know who we meant in that Chop Suey verse

"Who is the girl that you're gone on?" one said.

"Do I know her—is she dark or fair? Won't you tell us her name?" they in unison plead.

"And her eyes, are they blue, and her hair—?"

"Does her name start with 'V,' or with 'P' and 'E'?

Does she live on the North side or South.

Is she slender and comely, and could she love me—

And, ah! has she teeth in her mouth?"

We listened a while with a grin on our face.

Her name we were tempted to tell, But we happened to think of The Time and The Place

And The Girl, and her "feiler,"—Oh!—Shucks.

'Twas all like a dream from which one hates to wake.

'Twas the old story over again.

We gnashed our teeth hard like we would on a steak

And determined to save her fair name.

So we held up our hand and the stillness of death

Settled down like a vast river flows, "Tis the story," we said in a short, rasping breath.

"Of the thorn that we find with the rose."

The crowd slowly melted with heads that bent low.

Save an urchin whose hair needed a trim.

And he mockingly said, as he, too, turned to go,

"Hub! You're findin' out sumthin' 'bout wimmen."

We returned to our smoke—the cigar had gone out.

And the dream with the smoke had gone too.

And Reality stalked in its stead all about.

In the ashes we read "It is true, it is true."

We didn't care much for the fact she was there.

Nor the fact that she ate her Chop Suey.

But it rattled us much that she gave us the stare

And smiled on the Chink, and on Looie.

At that moment, as though in

answer, the door opened with the

scant ceremony that friends of the frontier are wont to observe, admitting the attenuated, flapping, dome-crowned figure of Slapjack Simms, and Dextery fell upon him with the hunger of a wolf.

It was midnight and over the dark walls of the valley peered a multitude of stars, while away on the southern horizon there glowed a subdued effulgence as though from hidden fires beneath the Gold God's caldron, or as though the phosphorescence of Bering had spread upward into the skies. Although each night grew longer, it was the gloom of the creek-trail, his men at work in the cuts. There were perhaps two hours in which it was difficult to see at a distance, but the dawn came early, hence no provision had been made for torches.

Five minutes before the hour the night-shift boss lowered the grates in the dam, and as the rush from the sluices subsided, his men quit work and climbed the bluff to the mess tent.

The dwellings of the Midas, as has already been explained, sat back from the creek at a distance of a city block, the workings being thus partially hidden under the brow of the steep bank.

It is customary to leave a watchman in the pit during the noon and midnight hours, not only to see that strangers preserve a neutral attitude, but also to watch the wastegates and water supply. The night man of the Midas had been warned of his responsibility, and, knowing that much gold lay in his keeping, was disposed to gaze on the curious-minded with the sourness of suspicion. Therefore, as a man leading a pack-horse approached out of the gloom of the creek-trail, his eyes were on him from the moment he appeared. The road wound along the gravel of the bars and passed in proximity to the flumes. However, the wayfarer paid no attention to them, and the watchman detected an explanatory weariness in his slow gait.

"Some prospector getting in from a trip," he thought.

The stranger stopped, scratched a match, and, as he undertook to light his pipe, the observer caught the mahogany shine of a negro's face. The match sputtered out and then came impatient blasphemy as he searched for another.

"Evenin', sah! You-all oblige me with a match?" He addressed the watcher on the bank above, and,

Without waiting a reply, began to climb upward.

No smoker on the trail will deny the luxury of a light to the most humble, so as the negro gained his level the man reached forth to accommodate him. Without warning, the black man leaped forward with the ferocity of an animal and struck the other a fearful blow. The watchman sank with a faint, startled cry, and the African dragged him out of sight over the brow of the bank, where he rapidly tied him hand and foot, stuffing a gag into his mouth. At the same moment two other figures rounded the bend below and approached. They were mounted and leading a third saddle-horse, as well as other pack-animals. Reaching the workings, they dismounted. Then began a strange procedure, for one man clambered upon the sluices, and, with a pick, ripped out the grates. This was a matter of only a few seconds; then, seizing a shovel, he transferred the concentrates which lay in the bottom of the boxes into canvas sacks which his companion held. As each bag was filled, it was tied and dumped into the cut. They treated but four boxes in this way, leaving the lower two-thirds of the flume untouched, for Anvil Creek gold is coarse and the heart of the clean-up lies where it is thrown in. Gathering the sacks together, they lashed them upon the pack-animals, then mounted the second string of sluices and began as before. Throughout it all they worked with feverish haste and in unbroken silence, every moment flashing quick glances at the figure of the lookout who stood on the crest above, half dimmed in the shadow of a willow clump. Judging by their rapidity and sureness, they were expert miners.

From the tent came the voices of the night shift at table, and the faint rattle of dishes, while the canvas walls glowed from the lights within like great fire-flies hidden in the grass. The foreman, finishing his meal, appeared at the door of the mess tent, and, pausing to accustom his eyes to the gloom, peered perfunctorily towards the creek. The watchman detached himself from the shadow, moving out into the plain sight, and the boss turned back. The two men below were now working on the sluices which lay close under the bank and were thus hidden from the tent.

During the past two days the partners had haunted the courtroom where their lawyer, together with the counsel for the Scandinavians, had argued and pleaded, trying every possible professional and unprofessional artifice in search of relief from the arbitrary rulings of the court, while hourly they had become more strongly suspicious of some sinister plot—some hidden, powerful understanding back of the Judge and the entire mechanism of justice. They had fought with the fury of men who battle for life, and had grown to hate the lines of Stillman's vacillating face, the bluster of the district attorney, and the smirking confidence of the clerks, for it seemed that they all worked mechanically, like toys, at the dictates of Alec McNamara. At last, when they had ceased, beaten and exhausted, they were too confused with technical phrases to grasp anything except the fact that relief was denied them; that their claims were to be worked by the receiver; and, as a crowning defeat, they learned that the Judge would hear his court to St. Michael's and hear no cases until he returned, a month later.

Meanwhile, McNamara hired every idle man he could lay hand upon, and ripped the placers open with double shifts. Every day a stream of yellow dust poured into the bank and was locked in his vaults, while those mine-owners who attempted to witness the clean-ups were ejected from their claims. The politician had worked with incredible swiftness and system, and a fortnight after landing he had made good his boast to Struve and was in charge of every good claim in the district, the owners were ousted, their appeals argued and denied, and the court gone for thirty days, leaving him a clear field for his operations. He felt a contempt for most of his victims, who were slow-witted Swedes, grasping neither the purport nor the magnitude of his operation, and as to those litigants who were discerning enough to see its enormity, he trusted to his organization to thwart them.

The two partners had come to feel that they were beating against a wall, and had also come squarely to face the proposition that they were without funds wherewith to continue their battle. It was maddening to realize the receiver's shrewdness in crippling them by his theft of the gold in their safe. That had been his crowning stroke.

"We must get money quick," said Glenister. "Do you think we can borrow?"

"Borrow?" sniffed Dextery. "Folks don't lend money in Alaska."

They relapsed into a moody silence.

"I met a feller this mornin' that's workin' on the Midas," the old man resumed. "He came in town for a pair of gum boots, an' he says they've run into awful rich ground—so rich that they have to clean up every morning when the night shift goes off 'cause the riffles clog with gold."

"Think of it!" Glenister growled. "If we had even a part of one of those clean-ups we could send Wheaton outside."

In the midst of his bitterness a thought struck him. He made as though to speak, then closed his mouth; but his partner's eyes were on him, filled with a suppressed but growing fire. Dextery lowered his voice cautiously:

"There'll be twenty thousand dollars in them sluices tonight at midnight."

Glenister stared back while his pulse pounded at something that lay in the other's words.

"It belongs to us," the young man said. "There wouldn't be anything wrong about that, would there?"

Dextery sneered. "Wrong! Right! Them is fine an' soundin' titles in a mess like this. What do they mean? I tell you, at midnight tonight Alec McNamara will have twenty thousand dollars of our money."

"God! What would happen if they caught us?" whispered the younger, following out his thought. "They'd never let us get off the claim alive. He couldn't find a better excuse to shoot us down and get rid of us. If we came up before this judge for trial, we'd go to Sitka for twenty years."

"Sure! But it's our only chance. I'd rather die on the Midas in a fair fight than set here bitin' my hangnails. I'm growin' old and I won't never make another strike. As to bein' caught—them's our chances. I won't be took alive—I promise you that—and before I go I'll get me satisfy. Castin' thing up that's about all a man gets in this vale of tears, jest satisfaction of one kind or another. It'll be a fight in the open, under the stars, with the clean, wet moss to lie down on, and not a scraffin'-match of freak phrases, and law-books inside of a stinkin' court-room. The cards is shuffled and in the box, partner, and the game is started. If we're due to win, we'll win. If we're due to lose, we'll lose. These things is all figured out a thousand years back. Come on, boy. Are you game?"

"Am I game?" Glenister's nostrils dilated and his voice rose a tone. "Am I game? I'm with you till the big cash-in, and Lord have mercy on any man that blocks our game tonight."

"We'll need another hand to help us," said Dextery. "Who can we get?"

At that moment, as though in

answer, the door opened with the

scant ceremony that friends of the

frontier are wont to observe, admitting the attenuated, flapping, dome-crowned figure of Slapjack Simms, and Dextery fell upon him with the hunger of a wolf.

It was midnight and over the dark walls of the valley peered a multitude of stars, while away on the southern horizon there glowed a subdued effulgence as though from hidden fires beneath the Gold God's caldron, or as though the phosphorescence of Bering had spread upward into the skies. Although each night grew longer, it was the gloom of the creek-trail, his men at work in the cuts. There were perhaps two hours in which it was difficult to see at a distance, but the dawn came early, hence no provision had been made for torches.

Five minutes before the hour the night-shift boss lowered the grates in the dam, and as the rush from the sluices subsided, his men quit work and climbed the bluff to the mess tent.

The dwellings of the Midas, as has already been explained, sat back from the creek at a distance of a city block, the workings being thus partially hidden under the brow of the steep bank.

It is customary to leave a watchman in the pit during the noon and midnight hours, not only to see that strangers preserve a neutral attitude, but also to watch the wastegates and water supply. The night man of the Midas had been warned of his responsibility, and, knowing that much gold lay in his keeping, was disposed to gaze on the curious-minded with the sourness of suspicion. Therefore, as a man leading a pack-horse approached out of the gloom of the creek-trail, his eyes were on him from the moment he appeared. The road wound along the gravel of the bars and passed in proximity to the flumes. However, the wayfarer paid no attention to them, and the watchman detected an explanatory weariness in his slow gait.

"Some prospector getting in from a trip," he thought.

The stranger stopped, scratched a match, and, as he undertook to light his pipe, the observer caught the mahogany shine of a negro's face. The match sputtered out and then came impatient blasphemy as he searched for another.

"Evenin', sah! You-all oblige me with a match?" He addressed the watcher on the bank above, and,

Without waiting a reply, began to climb upward.

No smoker on the trail will deny the luxury of a light to the most humble, so as the negro gained his level the man reached forth to accommodate him. Without warning, the black man leaped forward with the ferocity of an animal and struck the other a fearful blow. The watchman sank with a faint, startled cry, and the African dragged him out of sight over the brow of the bank, where he rapidly tied him hand and foot, stuffing a gag into his mouth. At the same moment two other figures rounded the bend below and approached. They were mounted and leading a third saddle-horse, as well as other pack-animals. Reaching the workings, they dismounted. Then began a strange procedure, for one man clambered upon the sluices, and, with a pick, ripped out the grates. This was a matter of only a few seconds; then, seizing a shovel, he transferred the concentrates which lay in the bottom of the boxes into canvas sacks which his companion held. As each bag was filled, it was tied and dumped into the cut. They treated but four boxes in this way, leaving the lower two-thirds of the flume untouched, for Anvil Creek gold is coarse and the heart of the clean-up lies where it is thrown in. Gathering the sacks together, they lashed them upon the pack-animals, then mounted the second string of sluices and began as before. Throughout it all they worked with feverish haste and in unbroken silence, every moment flashing quick glances at the figure of the lookout who stood on the crest above, half dimmed in the shadow of a willow clump. Judging by their rapidity and sureness, they were expert miners.

From the tent came the voices of the night shift at table, and the faint rattle of dishes, while the canvas walls glowed from the lights within like great fire-flies hidden in the grass. The foreman, finishing his meal, appeared at the door of the mess tent, and, pausing to accustom his eyes to the gloom, peered perfunctorily towards the creek. The watchman detached himself from the shadow, moving out into the plain sight, and the boss turned back. The two men below were now working on the sluices which lay close under the bank and were thus hidden from the tent.

During the past two days the partners had haunted the courtroom where their lawyer, together with the counsel for the Scandinavians, had argued and pleaded, trying every possible professional and unprofessional artifice in search of relief from the arbitrary rulings of the court, while hourly they had become more strongly suspicious of some sinister plot—some hidden, powerful understanding back of the Judge and the entire mechanism of justice. They had fought with the fury of men who battle for life, and had grown to hate the lines of Stillman's vacillating face, the bluster of the district attorney, and the smirking confidence of the clerks, for it seemed that they all worked mechanically, like toys, at the dictates of Alec McNamara. At last, when they had ceased, beaten and exhausted, they were too confused with technical phrases to grasp anything except the fact that relief was denied them; that their claims were to be worked by the receiver; and, as a crowning defeat, they learned that the Judge would hear his court to St. Michael's and hear no cases until he returned, a month later.

Meanwhile, McNamara hired every idle man he could lay hand upon, and ripped the placers open with double shifts. Every day a stream of yellow dust poured into the bank and was locked in his vaults, while those mine-owners who attempted to witness the clean-ups were ejected from their claims. The politician had worked with incredible swiftness and system, and a fortnight after landing he had made good his boast to Struve and was in charge of every good claim in the district, the owners were ousted, their appeals argued and denied, and the court gone for thirty days, leaving him a clear field for his operations. He felt a contempt for most of his victims, who were slow-witted Swedes, grasping neither the purport nor the magnitude of his operation, and as to those litigants who were discerning enough to see its enormity, he trusted to his organization to thwart them.

The two partners had come to feel that they were beating against a wall, and had also come squarely to face the proposition that they were without funds wherewith to continue their battle. It was maddening to realize the receiver's shrewdness in crippling them by his theft of the gold in their safe. That had been his crowning stroke.

"We must get money quick," said Glenister. "Do you think we can borrow?"

"Borrow?" sniffed Dextery. "Folks don't lend money in Alaska."

CITY FIREMEN MAY GET PENSION

WISCONSIN LEGISLATURE PASSES NEW FIRE DEPT. BILL

READY FOR THE GOVERNOR

Men Who Have Served Twenty-two Years May Retire on Pension.

Indications are that long service in the La Crosse fire department will be rewarded with pensions. All that is now needed to bring this about is the signature of the governor.

Information from Madison has been received to the effect that bill No. 121 A, for the creation of a pension fund for members of the fire departments in cities of the second, third and fourth class, has been passed by both houses of the Wisconsin legislature. The bill is now in the assembly enrolling room and will go to the governor late this week for his approval. This announcement will be of great interest not only to the members of the La Crosse fire department but to the members of every paid fire department of second, third and fourth class cities of the state, and to the members of their families, who will benefit thereby.

Provisions of Bill.

The pension fund bill introduced by Mr. Ledvina, provides that in cities of the second, third and fourth class, having paid fire departments, one half of all sums collected or received by the treasurers of these cities under the requirements providing for the taxation of fire insurance companies or agents shall be set apart as a pension fund to be used for the pensioning of disabled and superannuated members of the fire department, and the widows and orphans of deceased members of the fire department. It is provided that the city treasurer shall be ex-officio treasurer of such fund.

It is also provided that every fireman in active service during his term of service shall pay into the pension fund one per cent of his monthly salary, also all fines imposed on members for violations of the rules of the department and all moneys deducted for time lost by members on account of sickness shall go into the fund. A board of trustees of the fund is provided for in the bill, this board to consist of the mayor, treasurer and city comptroller, (when no comptroller, city clerk) and three active members of the fire department. The three members of the board from the department are to be elected annually. This board is to have exclusive control and management of the fund.

HOW TO SECURE ROADS

W. O. Hotchkiss Advises That They Agitate Project Among Farmers

MILWAUKEE, June 1.—What is pronounced by the officers and members of the most successful annual convention in the history of the Wisconsin Rural Letter Carriers' association was held in the Hotel Blatz. For the first time in the history of the organization, members of congress appeared before it and discussed postal matters, especially those affecting the business in which the delegates are engaged.

The members were officially welcomed to the city by Assistant Postmaster Widule, Assistant City Attorney Clinton G. Price and Secretary R. B. Watrous of the Citizens' Business league. They were addressed by E. E. Dyer, formerly vice president of the National Association of Rural Carriers, and listened to an able discussion of the good roads problem, in which they are vitally interested, by W. O. Hotchkiss, geologist in charge of the state geological survey.

Agitate Among Farmers
In a plea for the building and maintenance of good roads throughout the state, W. O. Hotchkiss, of the state geological survey, described various means by which the rural mail carrier may aid in the work of the state survey.

"If the rural mail carriers will become familiar with the facts at the foundation of road building and tell them to the farmers along their routes, a great deal will be accomplished toward better road conditions," said Mr. Hotchkiss. "There are 1,500 rural carriers in the state and they alone reach the majority of people living along the country roads. If they will distribute the pamphlets and literature of the geological department of the state university, the farmers will realize the great cost and expense of building and maintaining the roads of the state. We need economy and care in furnishing the proper kind of road for the traffic that passes over it. Today the great number of farmers build roads with their feet, as did their forefathers Adam, not with their heads, as did MacAdam."

Mr. Hotchkiss described many of the problems of building and maintaining proper roads and said that the greatest effort of the state geological survey is to arouse popular interest in the subject and to insure to the public that they shall receive $1 worth of road for $1 in taxes.

TEACHER OUSTED 15 OTHERS QUIT

TWO RIVERS, WIS., WROUGHT UP OVER SCHOOL TROUBLE

YOUNG INSTRUCTOR 'CANNED'

"Pretty School Mams" Stick With Young Instructor and Declare Strike.

TWO RIVERS, Wis., June 1.—Because he was not "in society" Prof. Leonard Evans, a popular young instructor in the Two Rivers High school has been informed by the school commissioners that his services are no longer required.

Because of Prof. Evans' expulsion and partly because they had been termed "gay" by certain citizens, and told that they were unwelcome guests at the Hamilton, the leading hotel where many of them boarded, fifteen lady teachers, known as the "pretty school mams," tonight tendered their resignation to the school board, to take effect next week, claiming that they will shortly shake the dust of the town where they have been treated so discourteously.

Claims It Is Spite Work.

The city is divided over the dismissal of the teacher and the resignation of his associates. Prof. Evans claims that he has filled his position satisfactorily and that spite work has cost him his place.

The resignation of the fifteen pretty teachers, many of whom had contracts for next year's school session, has created consternation, as their action has virtually depopulated the ranks of the intermediate teaching grades. All of these teachers have come to Two Rivers from outside.

WOMAN GETS DAMAGES

RACINE, Wis., June 1.—In the circuit court Alvina Rupprecht was awarded a judgment against Joseph Pacini of Kenosha for $2,000. Years ago she made the acquaintance of Pacini and she lived with him as his wife for six years and three children were born. Often Pacini promised to marry her, but put it off and finally she had Pacini arrested. Pacini is worth $50,000, having a large store in Chicago, another at Waukegan and one in Kenosha. It is also said that Pacini has a wife in Italy.

DOG SAVES LIFE

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., June 1.—A faithful dog led to the discovery of John O. Glenn, a farmer living near Olney, who had disappeared from his home for several days. Friends and neighbors searched the woods for him and finally heard the barking of a dog, and this led to the finding of Glenn, who had fallen into a ditch and dislocated his spinal column. He was totally disabled and was almost dead when found. His dog, however, had watched over him while he was lying in the ditch.

HEALTHY SCHOOLMA'AM

Found Out How to Feed Herself.
Many school teachers, at the end of their year's work, feel thoroughly exhausted and worn out, physically and mentally. The demand upon the nerves and brain of a teacher is unusual and unless they are well fed and fed upon properly selected food, it is natural that they should run down.

A little woman teacher in Mich., who has been teaching regularly for a number of years, has always found herself thoroughly exhausted at the end of the session, until within the last year, she has made use of Grape-Nuts food with the result that she closed the year as a robust, healthy, strong, vigorous woman, having gained in weight from 90 pounds to 125; her nerves strong, face bright and cheery, and really a wonder to all her friends, who constantly comment on her color and strength. She knows exactly to what the change is attributed, for in the years past, living on ordinary food, she has almost broken down before the school year closed, whereas since using Grape-Nuts, this change has been brought about; evidence prima facie of the value of Grape-Nuts food for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers. HOW TO AVOID PANIC

Ridgely Gives Out a Tip on Wall Street

DETROIT, Mich., June 1.—Controller of the Currency Ridgely, in an address before the Detroit Bankers' club here last night, declared that the best way to handle the government money is through the banks, and not the subtreasuries. In the course of his address he said:

"The best way to handle the collections and distribution of government funds is through the banks in which the business of the people is transacted. The passage of the act of March 4, 1907, or the so-called 'Aldrich bill,' makes it possible to take a long step in this direction, by leaving the revenues of the government in circulation, instead of collecting cash and storing it in treasury vaults."

"The most constant and serious complaint which is made of the working of the treasury department is that the treasury is always in the money market as a disturbing factor."

"To consult the conditions resulting from these operations the treasury for years has found it necessary to adopt varying expedients to put the money back into the hands of the people. When action of this kind has to be taken the secretary is accused of acting only for the relief of Wall street and stock market gamblers."

"It would seem the part of wisdom, instead of waiting until harm has been done and then try to cure it, to prevent the harm being done at all. I believe this is practicable under the law as recently amended. The act of March 4, 1907, now makes possible the deposit of all the government receipts in the banks, and in this way both internal revenue and the customs receipts can be left in circulation. This can be done by allowing the collectors of both classes to receive in payment of customs and internal revenue certificates of deposit in banks which are designated depositories of the United States."

"Let the treasury get clear of the money market and leave it alone. Business men would then know what they could expect, and make their calculations accordingly. This would have a most salutary effect, for when people realized that the treasury department would not rush to their aid as soon as money became tight there would be less dependence on such relief, and a far steadier and more satisfactory condition in the money market."

MEDIUMS PLACED UNDER BAN

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1.—In reversing a judgment which permitted the will of Mrs. Albertsmeier to be probated, the supreme court today held that spiritualism should not be permitted to control the practical affairs of life.

Mrs. Albertsmeier left a considerable estate, but cut off her orphan grandchildren with $1 each, it being alleged that her husband appeared to her at a seance and told her that the children were going to make trouble.

The court today declared that it is right for the wife to consult her husband's wishes, and that it is a well known fact that many of the brightest and clearest intellects have sincerely believed in spiritualism and other vagaries, and that it cannot be said as a matter of law that such belief is evidence of unsoundness of mind."

"But," declared the court, "when such pretended counsel comes through the dubious channel of a medium as an oracle from one possessing knowledge of the hereafter, under the solemn surroundings of the seance, its influence on a credulous mind can hardly be measured. The indulgence of such belief and practices may be so long continued and of such a character as to affect the mental status."

DOG PROVES A CLAIM

Magistrate Calls on Dog to Decide Ownership

NEW YORK, June 1.—Magistrate Crane, in the Morisania court, decided rival claims of ownership of a pet skye terrier in a way that won for him general approval.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beauchamp of 885 Grant avenue were walking through East One Hundred and Sixty-first street, near Third avenue, followed by the skye terrier, when Martin V. Tracy of 372 East One Hundred and Sixty-fourth street caught up the dog, declaring it was his property and had been stolen. The Beauchamps appealed to Patrolman Newman, who arrested Tracy on a complaint of larceny.

Both men and their wives, with the dog, were in court to press their respective claims. Magistrate Crane ordered his probation officer, Jerome Brennis, to take the whole party into the magistrate's private room. There the skye terrier was placed on a lounge. At a given signal the Tracys called in unison:

"Here, Bebe! Here, Bebe!"
The dog failed to respond. But with a joyous bark it ran to Mrs. Beauchamp at her call of "Dandy." Magistrate Crane decided that the Beauchamps were entitled to the terrier, but dismissed the complaint against Tracy, as he seemed to be perfectly sincere.

TELLS OF HER ESCAPE

Matricide Is Now Safe on Board Steamship

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 1.—Bertha Bellestein, the matricide who escaped from the Dixmont insane asylum eight months ago and who was thought for some time to be with Chas. F. Smith, has been located.

She is on the German steamer Bremen on her way to Europe, having sailed from New York yesterday. Before the boat sailed, Miss Bellestein, who has been passing under the name of Ada Barker in the east, gave out a lengthy statement for publication. The girl says that a physician, an attorney, two business men, and four well known women conspired to help her to escape. A dinner party in a downtown club 20 months ago was really a meeting in her behalf. Bertha was communicated with through notes, maps, pictures, etc., all smuggled in loaves of bread which the girl got weekly in a basket of fruit.

She also was sent newspapers daily and told to educate herself to outside world affairs so she wouldn't "seem queer" when she got out and be suspected. She was "schooled" for a year by strange outside tutors. Soon an impression by the keyhole to the door was taken. Friends had a key made and smuggled it in in a corset, and Bertha says the rest was easy.

She said her Pittsburg relatives have always been in the Dixmont Asylum. Hutchins of the Dixmont asylum was in the east looking for her at the moment she sailed.

KILLED BY BICYCLE

MADISON, Wis., June 1.—H. C. Drake, about 78 years old, was found dead at the side of the drive near Maple Bluff Wednesday afternoon by Chris. Christianson, one of the asylum superintendents. By his side lay an old-fashioned bicycle, from which he had fallen. His daughter was the first wife of Gilbert E. Rice.

MAKES GOOD THREAT

Milwaukee Doctor Hangs Himself to Bedpost

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 1.—"Some of these days I am going to end all my unhappiness. You will find me dead, and all will be over," Dr. Edwin Franklin Kessler, aged 52, living at 562 East Water street, said this to friends a short time ago. Yesterday afternoon he was found hanging from a bedpost in his rooms by Patrolman Louis Hartmann. The body was cold.

Dr. Kessler had not been seen since Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Miss Clara Huth, daughter of Mrs. Emil Huth, landlady of Dr. Kessler, spoke to him. Mrs. Huth suspected yesterday that something was wrong, inasmuch as the man had not left his room for over twenty-four hours. She tried the door, and found it locked. She then called Patrolman Hartmann, who had to make his entrance through a window. He found Dr. Kessler hanging from a bedpost. Dr. Kessler had used a clothes line. The feet were stretched out on the floor, the body being almost in a sitting posture.

IS MADE SUPERINTENDENT

J. C. Code, who two years ago was train dispatcher in the Burlington offices here has been made general superintendent of the Wabash system. Mr. Code lived on State street and was well known here. Two years ago he was made chief dispatcher at Galesburg on the Burlington and later assistant superintendent on the Wabash at Canton, O. His last promotion soon followed.

BARBERS GET COLD FEET ON INCREASE

NO FIFTEEN CENT SHAVES, SAY
NORTH SIDERS

COMPETITION IS TOO STRONG

"Ten Cent Shave in Same Block Would Put Us Out of Business," Says Agitator

At a critical moment the North side barbers got "cold feet" on their proposition of charging 15 cents for shaves.
It had already been planned among the principal barbers in the south end of the North side to start under the new scale today, despite the refusal of others to join. This morning, however, one of the most prominent agitators of the 15 cent scale claimed that he couldn't afford to charge his customers 15 cents, while people within a block of his shop were shaving for 10 cents.
This practically ends the matter
as far as the North side is concerned.
Most of the credit for keeping the raise in prices from going into effect is the holding out of Charles Matsdorf. Every effort was made at the opening of the campaign to induce him to join the union but he steadily refused to do so, claiming that if he raised his price his trade would be practically ruined. This was the cause of the holding out of several of the others and the plan has evidently flunked.

Geo. P. Clarke has returned to his home in Ashland after calling on friends in the city.

Miss Cora A. Deyoe of Eugene,

SHAKESPEARE FOR TEACHER

Appreciation of the Efforts of Prof.
Schubert Shown in Gift at Close of Affair

The Lincoln-Douglas Debating society ended its second year of existence, which was one of great success, with its annual banquet at the Congregational church last night. The event was attended by about 100 people and the showing made by its members is a great credit to the society. An elegant menu was served by the ladies of the church.

Benjamin Stevens, the toastmaster of the evening, did justice to his position and was always ready with anecdotes.

The first toast offered was "Our High School," by Eugene Luening, in which he told of the appreciation of the pupils and citizens of La Crosse for the new high school. He also expressed the regret felt in the loss of Mr. Hemmingsway as principal.

A toast was then offered on "Lincoln" by Paul Esch who did credit to his name and plainly showed that he was a "chip of the old block." He was followed by Walter Mueller, whose toast was on "Douglas." He explained how wisely the society was named and what a good model they had selected in "The Little Giant."

A "Farewell Address" was given to the seniors by S. Stavrum and the response by I. Strauss.

Hugh Moss showed the good qualities of the Lincoln-Douglas debates, and by his magnificent flow of eloquence proved he was one of its members.

"The Lunch Room," was the toast given by Miss Margaret Jackman, the representative of the Artemis club,
and it was very appropriate.

Mayor W. A. Anderson delivered a short address which was very interesting. He was followed by the speaker of the evening, Hon. J. J. Esch, who told of the "great debates in congress, and said that there still are some great orators left.

Mr. J. P. Bird, guest of honor, was called on and gave a short address.
The toastmaster called on the following people who responded with short toasts: Prof. Zimmer, Prof. Brinley and Lloyd Wilsey.

The officers for the coming year have been elected as follows:
President—S. Stavrum.
Vice president—B. Stevens.
Secretary—W. Owens.
Treasurer—J. Jungbluth.
Regent—W. Mueller.
Sergeant at arms—Fred Dickens.

To show the appreciation of Mr.
Schubert's valuable services to the society a beautiful set of Shakespeare was presented to him, at the closing of the banquet.

One of the best numbers on the program was a zither selection by Alvin Barthel, which was thorowly appreciated by all.

KILLED BY A TRAIN

Unidentified Man Run Down Near St. Charles, Minn.

A young man, aged about 23, was run down and killed by a North-western train between Dover and St.
Charles, Minn., yesterday morning.
His body was considerably mangled.
The only mark by which the body might be identified was a ticket he carried from St. Charles to Eyota, Minn. He was evidently walking between these stations.

riving on the morning of that day to

Both of the steamers will proceed north to St. Paul from La Crosse,

The present year will be the best and most profitable in the history of the two steamers. Every date is filled up to the end of the season. Captain D. W. Wisherd, manager of the company, states that the dates were taken in January this year. Captain Wisherd will be in La Crosse in a few days.

FEARFUL RIDE IN BOAT Two Men Drift Helplessly With Explosive Cargo

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 1.—
Adrift for two days in an open launch loaded with dynamite and gunpowder, without food, exposed to the elements and expecting, with each lurch of the craft, to be blown into eternity, was the experience of J. Kumpf and Engineer L. Bechtel of the Crowley Launch company, who were rescued from their perilous situation and returned to the city. The men were saved from a terrible fate by George L. Cross, manager of Cross Island, several miles north of Mare Island navy yard.

In the launch Escort the two men left the powder works at Pinole for this city, with three tons of explosives aboard. As the craft was making headway upon the broad expanse of San Pablo bay her engine broke down. With the incessant wash of the tide the little launch rocked and rolled dangerously, and none of the emergencies applied by the crew were of avail. As dawn was breaking the boat drifted upon the beach of San Pablo bay, where the waves washed over it.

Cross discovered the predicament of the two men and rescued them, taking them to a farm house.

NEW WEST SALEM TEACHERS

List for the Coming Season Completed—Other Salem Notes

Unless some further change is made in the school force the following list of teachers will be employed for the coming year:

Principal—Mr. Atwood.
First assistant—Miss Le Tourneur.
Second assistant—Miss Black.
Grammar—Miss Smith.
Intermediate—Miss Hitchcock.
First primary—Miss Fairbanks.
Second primary—Miss Blackstone.
Music and drawing—Miss Molstad.
A meeting of the directors of the West Salem Cash Trading company was held on Wednesday and a thriving trade reported.

The proposed change in the Min-dora highway is already looked upon as a sure thing and will be one of the most needed improvements that has come before the county board.
A meeting was held by the members of the school board on Thursday evening and arrangements made for an entertainment course for the coming winter. A higher price than heretofore was arranged and it is to be hoped that something worth attending has been secured.

The work on the village pump is still dragging slowly owing to lack of proper material for the work.
Sunday afternoon a most disgraceful show of drunkenness was exhibited in one of the barns of the village, about a dozen of the boys spending their time in hooting and jeering the poor victim of drink.

The sale held by the ladies of the Presbyterian Aid society on Thursday and Friday was a successful one and the amount raised about $150.

Martin McElowney has returned from Columbus, O., where he attended the national meeting of the Presbytery. He reports a very interesting gathering.

A. J. Phillips is slowly improving after his long confinement.
The members of the West Salem Progressive association are talking of improving the sanitary condition of the streets and alleys of the village which are not always in perfect condition during the summer.

WRECK KILLS, MAN ARRESTED

ELYRIA, O., June 1.—Thursday evening a wreck of electric cars occurred that so far has resulted in the death of seven people, and another is dying. The motorman of the second car which ran into a forward car was arrested this morning accused of manslaughter.

The church will not make a new world until it is willing to mix with the old one.

MAY ELECTRIFY NORTHWESTERN

KENDALL-SPARTA ROADWAY IS FULL OF GRADES

WILL BUILD WATER POWER

Plant and Operate Pusher Engines by Means of Electricity in That Section.

Officials of the Chicago & Northwestern are at Kendall, east of here, looking into the feasibility of developing water power enough to produce electricity sufficient to enable them to use this as an auxiliary to steam in getting their trains over the hills between this place and Sparta.

These hills always have proved an expense to the company, and as it has been found impossible to reduce the grade, and as the cost of supplying pusher engines and crews has been great, it has been determined to find some cheaper method of transporting heavy freights up the long, steep grades.

Chief Electrician Glynn, who is examining the ground, says that the company proposes to establish water power of the capacity of at least 1-000 horse power, to generate sufficient electricity to be of use. A third rail then would be laid between Kendall and Sparta, and an electric engine installed to take the place of the present steam "pushers." The required water power, apparently,
can be obtained only by damming
the creek at Glendale.

CHAMPION MEAN MAN

That's What a Teddy Bear
Swindler Is

DENVER, Colo., June 1.—Give Denver another championship medal and crown her afresh with laurel.
Once more she has proved her supremacy. This time she jumps into the calculus of fame as the abiding place of the champion among all the champion men of the world.

There have been past masters in the art of meanness produced by other cities, but Denver claims that her champion has all other men so completely outwitted, that in comparison, they are really not mean men at all.

The new sovereign of meanness is an individual who is cheating small children out of their Teddy bears.
The champion mean man wanders around town until he sees some scrap of humanity about 4 years old clutching a beloved Teddy bear in his chubby hand. Then Mr. Champion walks up.

"Look," he says, holding up a shining 25 cent piece. "I will give you all this sugar stick money if you will give me your Teddy bear."

The bait is too alluring for the children to resist and they hand over their $3 and $4 bears for the "two bits."

TROUBLES OF TELEPHONISTS

MANITOWOC, Wis., June 1.—A fight between the Wisconsin Telephone company and 100 local subscribers to the service is on because the latter will not install the new telephones of the corporation in place of the Blake instruments, which have been generally superseded by the new instruments. A promise was made to the city council that if that body denied the independent company a franchise, all concessions promised by the independents would be met, including the rates. The independent company offered a rate of $2.50 for a single metallic line per month, but when the new phones were installed by the Wisconsin company, a short time ago, a rate of $3.50 was put into effect, which was a raise. Users of the Blake instruments, in order to retain the old rate, kept in the old instruments, since the plea for the higher rates was made because of the new instruments and attending improvements in service.

ANGLERS MAKE FEW GOOD HAULS

MEMORIAL DAY FISHING IS NOT VERY GOOD

MOIST WEATHER INTERFERES

Crowds of Walton Followers Seek Out
"Fishy" Places, but With No
Great Luck

Notwithstanding the fact that Memorial day was anything but a favorable day to be perched on a snag or seated in a leaky flat boat fishing for bass or croppies, a large delegation of anglers were out and some very good catches were reported.

At Round lake the usual number of fishermen were out and, strange as it may seem, the finny tribe were more easily enticed to snap at the minnow during the afternoon than in the morning.

Bit Well for Few Hours

From 3 to 6 o'clock the anglers are said to have had a harvest, that portion of the day being the only one when the biting was on. Pickerel and sunfish were minus quantities and catfish were few and far between.
It is estimated that 500 people left La Crosse yesterday morning for fishing fields up and down the river.
The boat livery did a rapid business for a few hours and minnows were as eagerly sought before the trip was started as bass and croppies were after the first cast had been made.

Target lake drew the usual crowd and all the cottages were inhabited by their owners and invited guests.
The fishing was said to be better than usual, but that is not saying much, for the lake has been productive of little or no good results this year.
Whether the fish are not in the lake or whether the season is too backward for good results is not known, but anglers are of the belief that the fish will warm up a little, too, and be accommodating enough to create a desire or appetite for struggling minnows.

ONALASKA SERVICES

Memorial Day Appropriately
Observed in That City

ONALASKA, Wis., June 1.—(Special).—In spite of threatening (forecast of rain Memorial day proved fair and a large crowd attended the services at the cemetery. The usual program of marching was carried out, children marching with flowers and flags, followed by the band.
Then came the cadets under the supervision of Mr. E. Berg, who deserves credit for his labor in training them and lastly, the few veterans left of the great number who marched away to join their comrades in the great Civil war.

On reaching the cemetery an interesting program was carried out opening with a prayer by Rev. Colman and followed by a recitation and songs by the children and selections by the band. A song was sung by the male quartette. The decorations of the graves followed. An interesting feature of the ceremonies was the decorating of the living soldiers with a beautiful red rose pinned on by some of the cadets.

The funeral of Martin Larson residing just north of town was held from the Norwegian Lutheran church yesterday afternoon. Interment in the Onalaska cemetery. The deceased was about seventy-five years old.

Katherine Maud O'Brian, daughter of the Burlington station agent, who has been on the sick list for the past week, is reported better.

M. M. Butties had a cement walk laid in front of his place last week.
Randal and Son did the work.

The ice cream social given by the cadets was a big success and netted the boys about twenty dollars.

The Men's club of the M. E. church held a chicken pie dinner at Woodman hall Thursday. The men did the serving of a really fine dinner and were very proud of their achievements. But ah, their wives did the cooking.

The baseball game played yesterday afternoon between the Onalaska and Galesville teams resulted in a score of five to four in favor of Galesville, thirteen innings were played.

Mrs. F. R. Weston, who has been quite ill for the past week, is gaining slowly.

Mrs. Chas. Waynard and family and Mrs. H. L. Delameter and baby daughter will leave for California some time next week to join their husband who went out there about three months ago. They expect to remain permanently.

Mrs. F. Pooler is entertaining her daughter-in-law Mrs. Don C. Pooler of Seattle, who recently underwent an operation in the St. Francis hospital.

BIBON A DESERTED VILLAGE

CHIPPEWA FALLS, June 1.—After having its population dwindle from 600 to 75 within the last year, Bibon is likely to be called the "Deserted village of Wisconsin," for when the Chicago Lumber and Coal company closes down its planing mill in that town some time next month, it is expected that most of the remaining population will move away. The station agent is the only man who has definitely announced his intention of remaining. Four years ago Bibon was a thriving town of nearly 700 people. As the timber became scarcer in the surrounding country, it was the natural consequence that the mills would shut down, but the end was hastened by a fire which destroyed the big mill last year. The lumber company did not see fit to rebuild and nearly 300 persons packed up and left town within a month.

ARE PREPARING
THEIR THESIS

SENIORS AT STATE UNIVERSITY
WRITING ON MANY TOPICS

PURPOSE OF THE WORK

Many Peculiar Subjects Touched Upon—Valuable Contributions Offered to Knowledge

MADISON, Wis., May 31.—No two seniors of the University of Wisconsin meet during the last spring days before commencement without repeating the hackneyed question, "Is your thesis done?" Each senior is required to present a thesis acceptable to the faculty before graduation. The University of Wisconsin is one of the few institutions of the country that requires a thesis of all candidates for the baccalaureate degree. The preparation of the thesis is carried on throughout the entire senior year. The same requirement is made of every candidate for a higher degree, and these theses represent from one to three years' research. This year there are 519 seniors, and their theses include 313 in the college of letters and science, 132 in the college of engineering, 38 in the college of law, and 18 in the college of agriculture. In addition there are 49 candidates for higher degrees whose theses must be included in the total of 550 to be filed this year in the university library. As a result of a regulation requiring that each graduate deposit a copy of his thesis with the university librarian, there are now 3,357 theses on the library reference shelves. The first senior theses were required in 1894, and the great number which has since accrued forms an interesting collection.

Purpose of the Work
The purpose of the thesis is to give the student training in methods of scholarship. He is required to collect his material, perform experiments, and gather statistics, and then to arrange and present the results of his work in a clear and effective manner. The thesis represents some phase of the student's work in his major study, and is written under the direction of one of the professors, so that the student is assisted in obtaining the greatest benefit from his work. Material obtained in the course of the investigations is often presented at meetings of scientific, technical, and learned societies, and some theses of unusual merit and importance are published in periodicals or in the Bulletin of the university. Each year special honors are awarded several theses of unusual value. The Science club of the university offers annually a bronze medal for the scientific thesis of most excellence. Fred B. Wheeler of Syracuse, N. Y., has offered for the past two years, prizes for the two best theses in engineering.

Practical and Scientific Subjects
The individual research done by students for their theses naturally covers wide fields in engineering, education, history, language and literature, agriculture, and various sciences. Many subjects are of an extremely practical nature, such as that of a candidate for a doctor's degree in the college of agriculture, who wrote on "The Relation of Food to the Production of Milk and Butter Fat by Dairy Cows," or the thesis on "The Purification of Sewage by Means of the Septic Tank and Bacterial Beds," submitted by a student of the college of engineering. The testing of concrete for various structural purposes has occupied the attention of a number of seniors in the engineering college. One engineering thesis was on a study of "Metal Railroad Ties," another was on "Bridge Failures," and still another on "Methods of Train Lighting." Students have made investigations of the peat deposits in the state, designed for special situations, tested power, heat, and lighting plants, and have gone into detail in the study of all sorts of state and municipal problems. The results of all this work have been embodied in their theses.

Prominent Men Holding Degree
Among the many men whose doctor's theses were written at the University of Wisconsin, a number are occupying high positions on the faculties of other universities. Of these are Charles Jesse Bullock, professor of economics at Harvard, whose thesis was on "The Financial History of the United States from 1775 to 1789, with Especial Reference to the Budget," James H. Hamilton, professor of sociology at Syracuse university, who wrote on "Savings Banks," Harry H. Powers, president of the Bureau of University Travel, the subject of whose thesis was "Wealth and Happiness," Samuel E. Sparling, president of the Wisconsin State Civil Service commission, and assistant professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin, who wrote his thesis on "Municipal History of the City of Chicago," Paul S. Reinsch, professor of political economy at the University of Wisconsin, who wrote his thesis on "The Attitude of the American Colonies to the English Common Law," Balthasar H. Meyer, member of the railway rate commission and professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, whose thesis work was on "The History of Railroad Legislation of Wisconsin," Thomas K. Uhl, professor of political and social science at Colorado college, who wrote on "The Fee System in the United States," Charles K. Leith, professor of Geology in the University of Wisconsin, who devoted his thesis to "Rock Cleavage," and Chas. MacCarthy, state statistician and head of the legislative reference department in Wisconsin, whose thesis was on "The Anti-Masonic Party."

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who referred to trifling men as "doless?"

WASHINGTON

Yet the tone of Ambassador Wright's dispatches indicated that the affair was taken with gravity by the government and the populace at Tokio. The treatment of such matters, too, by the newspapers in Japan is not so much to help the feeling among the Japanese people toward this country.

It is the fashion in some quarters here to accept the Japanese professions of friendship at their face value. It is the fashion in other quarters, and this is especially true in the army and navy, to say that Japan is letting no chance go by to lay up a store of grievances against America and that sooner or later a reckoning will be called for that can have but one result.

Trouble Fomented

From the Philippines, come disturbing notes telling of the formation there of Filipino-Japanese leagues or societies in the interest of the wiping out of American rule and its substitution by Japanese rule. Official information as to how seriously the reports of these leagues should be taken is scant but they are believed in well informed quarters.

It is noticeable that the government this year is taking special precautions against the Japanese seal poachers in the Behring sea region. Last year, under orders of an agent of the department of commerce and labor, several of these poachers were shot, causing no little excitement for a time. This year, the treasury department is sending three revenue cutters instead of two to the Pribilof island region for the purpose of rigidly shutting out all poachers. If this element is as persistent as usual, trouble from this source may well recur before the season passes.

Root's Great Problem

In these and various other phases of Japanese relations, there exist the germs of what may develop into serious differences. The administration is well aware of the delicacy of these relations and is doing all it can to better them. Secretary Root is devoting his best efforts thereto and has so far shown such capacity as head of the state department that the feeling is warranted that he will find ways to bring about a more perfect understanding between the two countries. He is not deluding himself, however, with the belief he has an easy task set for him, and no man in the administration has a clearer grasp of the troubles and difficulties involved than he has.

SOCIETY

HASMUSSEN PLEASES

MINNEAPOLIS AUDIENCE
Friends of Rasmus Hasmusen who heard him a short time ago will be interested in the following item taken from the Minneapolis Journal of May 25:

"No one in America can have a true conception of the Norse peasant ballads known under the common name of 'Folkeviser,' or folk ballads without hearing Rasmus Hasmusen, and by the same token no one should miss hearing him. His art is so true to nature as to be perfect. Any musician can reproduce those strange northern airs after a fashion, and any singer can repeat the quaint words with more or less success, but to interpret those ballads as they should be with the peasant intonation and the correct flavor of the parish in which it originated, baffles even the art of the most consummate actor. It requires a rare genius."

"Mr. Rasmusen has the native gift and as he has devoted years of study to this class of work it is natural that he should be the most popular singer of folkeviser in Norway. Then he has a rich, musical baritone that is exceptionally well trained and this contributes much to the pleasure of his program."

"At Dania hall last evening Mr. Rasmusen sang viser from Soenford, Nordfjord, Hornindal and Telemarken, each one a gem in itself in its faithful interpretation of the peasant manner."

"His Ibsen readings are of a high order. Last evening he produced a scene between King Skule and Bishop Nikolas from 'Kongsemarne,' and Ornu's lament over the death of his youngest son from Herremændene paa Helgeland, with fine dramatic effect. To appreciate Rasmusen's work at its full value the spectator should be close enough to see the facial expression, for it is this that tells the story rather than the action, and hence many of those who heard him at the Auditorium on the 17th of May, can hardly place a true value on his art."

"Mr. Rasmusen also related some personal incidents which were laughable in the extreme and which showed his versatile talent by his mastery over the Thronhjelm, Stavanger and other dialects."

INDIAN LECTURER AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Mr. J. Mohammed Ali, formerly of Lahore, India, is in the city, and will speak at the First Methodist church Sunday evening on "Christianity, the Hope of India." Mr. Ali is a fluent and forceful speaker, and well equipped to interest and instruct an audience concerning India and her problems.

Mr. Ali was born in a Mohammedan home at Kapurthia, Punjab, India. He was educated at the Mohammedan-Anglo Oriental college, Aligarh. Later he went to Lahore where in 1896 he was converted to Christianity. This step ostracized him from his home. His father Dr. Sadat Ali, is physician to his highness, the Maharaja of Kapurthia state. This is the Indian prince whose presence at the World's Fair at Chicago created so much comment. Mr. Ali continued his studies at the Forman Christian college at Lahore. In 1900 he came to Detroit, Mich., for further educational work, and expects to make his permanent home in America, being established in the tea business.

Dressed in his attractive native costume, he speaks in choice and fluent English of his home and its numerous problems. To the thorough training which his education has given, he adds special natural gifts of close observation and vivid description. He is a thoughtful student of the course of events in his native land and is able to present his conclusions with the authority which only a native can assume.

He speaks in the Caledonia street Methodist church Sunday morning.

church of St. Mary's by the Rev. Father Tappert, the first Catholic priest which was stationed here.

Mrs. Webber, mother of Desk Sergeant Webber, was the only one of the guests present who was present at the marriage of fifty years ago, although many of the first settlers were on hand to offer congratulations upon the event.

Mrs. Coady was formerly Miss Bridget Daley and had resided in the city a year before her marriage, coming from Worcester, Mass. Mr. Coady was formerly from Burlington, Vt. The New York aldermen killed a pure milk bill. With pure politics, pure whiskey and pure police all struggling to the front Gotham must draw the line at reform somewhere unless the metropolis would meet the awful fate of being too good for this world.

NEW RATE LAWS

PASSENGER RATE

INJUNCTION IS GRANTED

Roads Are Suing Themselves to Test the Validity of Recent Enactments

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 1.—On the ground that the new commodity freight rate law, which goes into effect in Minnesota today and the 2-cent passenger rate law, which went into effect May 1, are in contravention of the provisions of the constitution of the United States, suits asking for an order restoring the old rates were begun in the federal court yesterday.

Temporary restraining orders against the attorney general of the state and the Minnesota railway and warehouse commission were signed yesterday by Judge Lochren, of the United States district court, at Minneapolis.

The suits are filed by stockholders of eight railroads doing interstate business in Minnesota. In the bills the railroads, as well as the state attorney general and members of the warehouse and railway commission, together with various shippers representing thousands of railway patrons in the northwest, are named as defendants.

In effect, the railroads are suing themselves with the object of testing the validity of the new 2-cent passenger rate law.

The railroads named in the several complaints are:

Great Northern.
Northern Pacific.
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul.
Chicago & Northwestern.
Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha.
Minneapolis & St. Louis.
Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie.
Chicago Great Western.

Bryan Wants to Know Name of His Candidate

LINCOLN, Neb., June 1.—In his Commoner, which will appear today, W. J. Bryan launches boldly into the question of the presidential succession and the possible candidates on either ticket. At the beginning, Mr. Bryan denounces as "fakes" stories sent out, he says, from Lincoln, quoting Mr. Bryan's friends as speaking for him. He especially objects to the statement that he (Bryan) will not be a candidate in case President Roosevelt is renominated. On this subject he says:

"Mr. Bryan had not said anything or done anything that indicated a desire to have Mr. Roosevelt elected for a third term; in fact the third term idea has been discussed with the same frankness that characterizes the discussion of other questions."

Taking up the question of the democratic nominee, Mr. Bryan quotes Henry Watterson as saying he can suggest a candidate who is ideal and can unite the party. Mr. Bryan says:

"Who is this man whose name is concealed, but whose personal fitness and political pre-eminence are thus vouched for? Mr. Bryan does not pose as a Warwick. He has no desire to assume the role of a candidate-maker."

When a girl has nice wavy hair it is a sign that a lot of other girls hate her for it.

LONG LIST OF
SPECIAL TRAINSST. PAUL WILL BE HOST TO NORTHWEST PEOPLE

TO ENTERTAIN THOUSANDS

Railroads Will Run Specials From
All Points, for Cathedral
Visitors.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 1.—Fully 25,000 visitors will be brought into St. Paul tomorrow to witness the laying of the corner stone for the new Cathedral. Eighteen special trains have already been arranged for, and if the occasion demands as many more will be put on.

Sunday will be the greatest excursion day in the history of St. Paul without a doubt. Visitors are coming from every point in Minnesota, and there will also be hundreds to come in from Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and the Dakotas. Every road will bring in special trains and all of the regular trains will be loaded with extra coaches to take care of the rush.

Only two roads have announced a cheap rate, and the officials of these lines say that this rate will be the last cheap rate to be offered in Minnesota. All other lines will charge a straight two cents a mile in this state, and the regular rates will apply to points without the state. The Chicago Great Western railway has made rates to points in Southern Minnesota and Iowa which average less than 1 cent a mile. This road will run more specials than any other, and with the cheap rates the officials expect to do a great business.

The Western roads will be more conservative, mainly because the population in the West is more scattered, and there will be fewer people from the Western towns to attend the ceremonies.

C. M. & ST. P. IS LUCKY
In Railroad Tunnel It Finds
Rich Mine

HELENA, Mont., June 1.—A report has reached here of one of the richest strikes ever made in the Coeur d'Alene mining district. The report is that a fourteen foot ledge of rich galena ore has been encountered in the Saltese tunnel now being driven for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company through the Montana-Idaho divide.

To lend color to the rumor there were filed here with the county clerk and recorder on Saturday last a notice and affidavit of a tunnel side by the Montana Mining company, a Washington corporation, which is known to be controlled by the Milwaukee people, wherein the name of F. H. Williams appears as locator and president of the company and that of C. E. Bailey as secretary. The location of the claim is identical with the location of the Saltese tunnel through the Montana-Idaho divide, the claim being 3,000 feet long and 750 feet wide.

In the affidavit it is claimed that there already has been expended in prospecting the work of a tunnel now in a distance of 248 feet and in construction of a power plant and other improvements the sum of $25,000. The Montana company already has located numerous claims along both sides of the tunnel site.

The world will reform as soon as men learn to think as much of their souls as they do of their stomachs.

TEN WILL GRADUATE

Commencement and Other
Galesville News

GALESVILLE, Wis., June 1.—(Special.)—In spite of the weather, the scholars of the seventh and eighth grades, Miss Terrell's room, enjoyed a picnic dinner at Riverside park on Saturday. Though the grounds were in a damp condition the scholars cleared out the large park building and served lunch in the big room. After ice cream, cake sandwiches, lemonade and all the rest of the good things had disappeared to appease a vigorous appetite of some twenty boys and girls, the tables were cleared and sports predominated until 5 o'clock.

Mr. Stokes, traveling representative of "The La Crosse Tribune" was a business caller in the village Monday. The Tribune has a nice list of subscribers here and its popularity is due in great measure to it being delivered every evening at the home by a carrier. This enterprise and push is bound to make it a winner in this locality.

The fiftieth anniversary of the Lutheran church at Taylor was celebrated and among those present were several from our town.

Many bullheads and perch are being caught and occasionally a black bass.

Last week 200,000 pike fry from the Oshkosh fish hatchery were put in lake Marinuk.

PRESIDENT COMES
ON THE M'KENZIEGOVERNMENT STEAMER BEING PREPARED FOR TRIP

RIVER TOWNS INVITE TEDDY

But La Crosse Has Taken No Action
Yet Because Executive May Not Come This Far North.

President Roosevelt will ride on the U. S. government steamer Col. A. MacKenzie on his tour of inspection of the Mississippi river this summer.

Announcement was made to this effect yesterday, and the MacKenzie was ordered to the docks to be repaired and generally overhauled for the trip. Many changes will be made in the boat, the principal one being the addition of a new Texas.

Invitations are being received by Private Secretary Loeb from the commercial organizations of the various towns and are being answered by him. Mr. Loeb states that all invitations will be taken into consideration, but that only one stop will be made in each state, owing to the limited time allowed for the trip.

No action has been taken by La Crosse on the subject as yet, owing to the fact that it cannot be determined whether the presidential party will come any farther into the upper waters of the Mississippi, than Dubuque.

HOSPITALITY OVERDONE

(Cleveland Plain Dealer).

It has been held up as a reproach to Americans that they leave their guests too little leisure; that they count that moment lost in which their visitors are not being "entertained," sometimes to the point of weariness or other discomfort; that the excess of their wholehearted hospitality often defeats its purpose. The visit of General Kuropki is the latest case in point. Ever since his arrival he has been subjected to a surveillance akin to that maintained over a suspected criminal. From early morning till late evening he has been allowed hardly a moment to himself. This strenuous form of entertainment must largely fail of its object if that is to give the little general what is here known as a "good time."

His father being a prominent doctor at that time. Twenty years ago they moved to Minneapolis where they have since resided. Harry expects to spend a two or three weeks' vacation here this summer.

The Gale college ball team crossed bats with the Arcadia high school today at that place. A number of fans went up.

Thursday being a holiday the rural route carriers had a day off.

Esther Farrand spent Sunday at La Crosse.

John Cedervall, who has been street commissioner for a number of years recently returned from a visit to Minneapolis, where he expects to soon move. John has secured steady work.

A large delegation of Trempealeau Masons were in attendance at the local lodge Friday evening, when work in the third degree took place.

The Gales and Onalaska ball teams met on the diamond Memorial day at Onalaska.

HURT IN A RUNAWAY
Horse Tramps on Kampschroer Cutting Scalp
Will Kampschroer, 215 North Ninth street, met with what might have been a fatal accident last evening.
The young man who is employed at the La Crosse grocery store was driving south on Fifth street and while directly in front of The Tribune building the horse reared and backing the wagon up on the side walk threw the young man out and directly under the horses feet. The animal planted his back hoof directly on the young man's head inflicting a severe cut around the ear.
The young man was rendered unconscious and was carried to the office of Doctor Suitor. It was found necessary to take six stitches in the wound. After two hours he regained consciousness and was taken to his home. He is resting easily today.

Creamery butter has taken another drop to 23 @ 24 cents a pound. Heifers have dropped 50 cents, now selling at $2.50 @ $3.50 per hundred. Farmers were not surprised that May was the coldest month on record, and are hoping that the month of June may make up in nice weather for what was lost during May. The conditions are not so bad, however, as some of the grain jobbers would have the public believe. (Saturday, June 1).

MARKET OPENED A SHADE LOWER AND FELL OFF

Receipts Were Heavy and Cables Weak, With Heavy Selling All Day

CHICAGO, Ill., June 1.—Wheat opened strong to a shade higher but eased off on heavy selling by commission houses induced by heavy northwest receipts, better weather and weak Liverpool cables. BAPTISTS TO HAVE ONE CONVENTION

THREE BIG SOCIETIES ARE ORGANIZED INTO ONE

HOAG RETURNS FROM CAPITOL

Tells of Important Work Done by Big Meeting—Enjoyed Visit to Jamestown Exposition

The Northern Baptist convention at Washington, D. C., just closed, took action of unusual interest to all Baptists in voting to merge the three large societies of the church into one convention to be known as the Northern Baptist's convention and electing Governor Hughes of New York as president.
The three societies included are the Foreign and Home Missionary societies and the Publicity society. Hereafter they will all work in unison.
Rev. John Wellington Hoag, pastor of the First Baptist church, who returned from Washington this morning, said the action was important, as it would add much weight to the expressions of the organization. Heretofore opinions have been those of the separate organizations, whereas, hereafter, an expression will be of the whole denomination.
Rev. Hoag thoroughly enjoyed his southern trip. After the convention at Washington of the Northern Baptists he went to Jamestown, where the convention of Southern, Northern and Canadian Baptists was held. He also visited the exposition.
Since the civil war the Baptists of the north and south have been divided, but Rev. Hoag is of the opinion that the two organizations will soon get together under one head.

MERGE BIG MEETINGS

Methodists Will Gather at Viroqua June 21-31

Presiding Elder W. H. Vance has made a change in the annual meetings of the various organizations of the Methodist church in the La Crosse district. In former years the camp meeting, the Epworth league convention, the ministers' associations meeting, the Sunday school institutions convention and the mid-year examinations have been held at different times and places. But starting this year they will be held in one large gathering to begin at Viroqua June 21 and continue ten days. The combining of these meetings will mean one of the most interesting assemblages in the district. Some of the leading men in the church in the country will be present on the program, which has been carefully prepared and the Viroqua camp meeting grounds are expected to be taxed to hold the visitors from all the congregations of this part of the state.
The most important features of the program are the series of Bible lectures by Dr. E. L. Eaton, one of the best known lecturers in this part of the state. Dr. Sheets of Chicago, one of the missionary secretaries has arranged the missionary society's part of the program. The sermons of Dr. R. J. Cooke of Cincinnati, Dr. George Elliott of Chicago and Dr. F. M. Ruile, will be of interest.

LAWYERS GET STRONG

Defy Medics to Play Ball and Brag of Prowess

The lawyers this afternoon issued the following challenge to the doctors for a game of ball, which is thought will greatly enrage the saw-bones. It is likely the latter will enter the contest with surgical instruments concealed in their garments.
To Dr. G. J. Egan, captain doctors baseball team:
Numerous reports having come to the ears of certain members of the lawyers association regarding certain windy statements attributed to you as to the superiority of the doctors over the lawyers at baseball you are hereby notified that such statements are highly erroneous and that you will have to either make such statements good at the baseball park or retract said statements. Please address any communication to Paul W. Mahoney, captain of lawyers baseball team.

SALE STARTS MONDAY AND CONTINUES UNTIL THE CARLOAD IS EXHAUSTED. YOU WILL WANT A WHOLE NEW SET OF COOKING UTENSILS AT THESE LOW PRICES

A sale like this one is truly eventful for it is but once in a while that you have the opportunity to supply yourself with high grade enamelware at a fraction of the regular prices. A manufacturer selling his surplus stock, because he needed the ready cash, afforded the opportunity. Our buyer was there and secured a car load at about half regularly paid. This enameled ware is formed from sheet steel and after being put together is coated on the outside with an attractive mottled effect of the favorite shade of Turquoise blue and pure white; the lining is a rich white that will not be effected by the acids encountered in cooking, preserving or pickling; it has a high finish and is very durable and strong. We haven't space to tell you all about the different articles included, but you can judge for yourself the magnitude of the sale by the offerings mentioned here. Remember these items here are not all. Different sizes of these articles and practically every piece of cooking utensil needed is included. Don't fail to come early, and remember the sale starts Monday and continues through the week—until the stock is exhausted.
